CHRISTIANIZE CANADA
FIRST, DR. R. B. COCHRANE
COMING OCTOBER 31st

"We must Christianize Canada first. Canada is not yet christianized economically, industrially, socially or ecclesiastically. In a trip that I took recently, I arrived in a new settlement of barely one hundred souls, and I found five different denominations there ministering to those few people. As long as we fight each other Canada is not christian ecclesiastically. Until Christ comes, the Canadian road, we cannot ask him to walk the Chipewyan road, the Indian road or any other road among the non-christian peoples."

This statement was made by Dr. R. B. Cochrane to the general council of the United Church of Canada recently assembled in Hamilton. The Crows' Nest Pass is to have the privilege of hearing this outstanding leader on Monday, October 31st, at Bellevue. He will address a grand rally of United church followers and friend at 8 o'clock. The rally will be preceded by a supper at 5 o'clock, for which tickets may be obtained at 10 cents each. There will be a concert at 7:30. If you cannot be present for supper or concert, you are urged to be present at the rally at 8 o'clock. Information regarding tickets or free transportation may be obtained by phoning Rev. A. E. Larke, 165.

DICKIE MOORE IS BEST
"STUDY IN THE EXPERT"

Dickie Moore, the six-year-old actor featured with Charles (Chic) Sale in "The Expert," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone screen version of Edna Ferber's fourth screen story at the Orpheum Theatre for the balance of the week, was discovered to be the quickest and surest "study" on the lot, having learned his lines perfectly. In two weeks, Dickie didn't cause a single "re-take" by forgetting his lines, a distinction not claimed by anyone else in the cast, which includes Lois Wilson, Eddie Foy, Ralf Harolde, Adrienne Dove, Walter Catlett, Noel Francis and others. "The Expert" was directed by Archie Mayo.

FAMOUS STAR HAS DECIDED OPINIONS ABOUT MARRIAGE

Tallulah Bankhead, actress, and Tallulah Bankhead, wife, can never exist at the same time. As long as she is an actress, she will remain unmarried; if she weds, she will abandon her career.

"No professional woman can make a lasting and real success of both marriage and a career," she believes. "It is unfair to a husband to share him with work."

"My husband, if I ever have one, will be capable of carrying all family honors. I would want to be known as Mrs. So-and-so and would never be happy if my husband were referred to only as 'Tallulah Bankhead's husband.' If I marry, I prefer my husband not of the theatrical profession."

The foregoing reflects the pronounced opinion on the subject of marriage of the brilliant and magnetic Miss Bankhead, star of "Tarnished Lady" of a year ago, and of "The Cheat" later, co-star with Frederic March in "My Sin," which is still active on the screen after many months, and now starring in "Thunder Below," which is the feature picture at the Orpheum for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

In the Rocky Mountains hunting territory near Mount Robson, B.C., Carl H. Best, of Los Angeles, and Fred M. Johnson, of San Mateo, Cal., set a record for a nine days' hunt. Best secured one moose, two caribou and a Rocky Mountain goat, while his hunting partner brought in one moose, one caribou, a goat and a mule deer.

SERGEANT SMITH WELL FITTED
FOR NEW POST WITH POLICE

Sergeant Jim Smith, formerly with the A.P.C. in R.C.M.P. in Lethbridge, and who was recently transferred to the Crows' Nest Pass, was a visitor to the city on Friday. Sergeant Smith has seen police work in all its branches since joining the Alberta force in 1919 and is well fitted for his work in the mine area.

The sergeant first joined the A.P.C. in Edmonton, following the war and was immediately sent into the north country as a constable. He was stationed at Fort McMurray and Fort Vermilion for a number of years and later occupied different posts throughout the south of the province. He was experienced with husky dogs and in the north part of the province frequently made long trips by this means of transportation.

In 1928 Constable Smith was sent to Lethbridge as sergeant and has remained here since. He has been engaged in practically every notable arrest in this immediate district since that time and was well known in the city. He was prominent in sport circles, especially golf and curling—Lethbridge Herald.

BRILLIANT CAST OF NEW FILM HEADED BY WILLIAM
AND O'SULLIVAN

Imagine the world's tallest building—the 192-story Empire State Building in New York City—with all the drama, romance and bits of humor which make up the lives of the thousands of men and women, young and old, toiling on its many floors. This is the structure around which "Skyscraper Souls," showing at Cole's theatre, tomorrow and Saturday, has been woven.

This drama of the struggling souls of a big city building was adapted by Elmer Harris, noted playwright, and C. Gardner Sullivan, author of many screen successes, from the Faith Baldwin novel, "Skyscraper." Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan head an outstanding cast which includes Gregory Ratoff, Anita Page, Verree Teasdale, Norman Foster, George Barbier, Jean Hersholt, Wallace Ford, Heddy Hopper, Helen Coburn and John Marston. The picture was directed by Edgar Selwyn, who produced Helen Hayes' first screen picture, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet."

What The Census Tells.

Statistics are generally regarded as dry and uninteresting, but to those who make a study of them as they relate to matters of vital importance to the welfare of the human family they become of absorbing interest. In fact, a knowledge and understanding of the statistical position of many matters are essential to a true grasp of such matters, and where it is possible to present such information to people in the form of charts and graphs they tell a story which mere words could never convey.

Within recent months the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which, by the way, is one of the best organized and most efficient departments of the Ottawa public service, has issued a large number of bulletins presenting the facts ascertained in the decennial census-taking last year, and which are worthy of study and consideration by the Canadian people. They indicate what progress has been made, where it has been made, and where as a people we have slipped a bit backward, or remained stationary.

Some things stand out as worthy of note. We learn, for example, that Canada's population increased by 1,588,837 in the ten-year period, 1921-31, or slightly over 18 per cent., which is 2 per cent. higher than the United States, a very healthy and substantial growth, and that the four Western provinces continued proportionately to increase in numbers more rapidly than the five Eastern provinces. Not so satisfactory from the standpoint of the nation as a whole is the disclosure that whereas the population of our cities, towns and villages increased by 1,219,936, or 28 per cent., our rural population increased by 363,901, or slightly over 8 per cent., with the result that whereas our rural population in 1921 exceeded the urban by 93,000, the urban now exceeds the rural by over 761,000.

It is interesting, too, to learn that of Canada's total population of 20,376,786, no less than 8,069,258, or 77 1/2 per cent., are native born Canadians, while a further 1,184,830, or 11 1/2 per cent., were born elsewhere under the British flag, leaving less than 11 per cent. of other than British birth.

Classified by religious denominations, the fact emerges that Roman Catholics constitute the largest single denomination with 4,988,546 adherents, the United Church coming second with 2,016,897, Anglicans third with 1,635,321, and Presbyterians fourth with 870,482. Not one of the remaining 27 denominations listed reach 500,000.

Canada's population consists of 5,374,541 males and 5,602,245 females, and the number of males predominates in every one of the nine provinces. There are, of course, more single than married persons, because of the large number of children, but the percentage of single to married is steadily decreasing, single persons constituting only 57.35 per cent. of the population in 1931, as compared with 61.67 per cent. in 1911, while married persons increased from 34.13 per cent. in 1911, to 38.27 per cent. in 1931. The number of widowed remained about the same, but the number of divorced rose from 661, or 0.1 per cent. in 1911, to 7,441, or 0.7 per cent. in 1931.

When we turn to the bulletin on the literacy of the people, a most encouraging picture is presented. It shows that a steadily increasing percentage of our people five years of age and over can both read and write, and taking Canada as a whole no less than 92.34 per cent. can do so compared with 90.00 per cent. only ten years ago. That this progress will be continued is made evident by the statistics of school attendance which reveals the encouraging fact that, whereas the increase in population between the ages of 5 and 24 years in the ten year period, 1921-1931, was 19.60 per cent., the percentage increase at school was 25.82 per cent. Better than one out of every five persons living in Canada is attending school.

Analysing the economic position so far as agriculture is concerned, it is revealed that, were it not for substantial increases in many departments in the three prairie provinces, Canada would have had to report a decided slipping back during the past ten years. There are, for example, 336,000 fewer horses on Canadian farms than in 1921, but this is accounted for by the introduction of automobiles and tractors. The number of cows in calf or in milk only increased by 281,000, and actually decreased in the Maritime provinces; other cattle were fewer in number by 642,000, every province except Quebec and British Columbia reporting decreases; sheep increased by 422,000, but again decreases took place in all provinces east of the Ottawa River; swine, on the other hand, showed the substantial increase of 1,343,000, only Nova Scotia and Ontario reporting small decreases; poultry jumped over 288,375,000 with all provinces sharing in the gain.

The number of farms in Canada is greater by 17,574 than ten years ago, there being fewer in the east and more in the west. Farms are also becoming larger, the average size in 1931 being 224 acres as compared with 198 acres in 1921. The acreage in occupied farms increased by 22,680,000 acres, while improved land in these occupied farms rose by over 15,000,000 acres, value increased.

On the other hand, the value of farm lands decreased by $984,409,709 and farm buildings by $41,171,300, all provinces reporting drops in land values, and the eastern provinces, except Prince Edward Island, decreases in value of buildings, while Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia reported increases.

There was, however, a marked improvement in farm comforts, conveniences and equipment, including automobiles, machinery of various kinds, gas and electric light, radios, telephones, water piped into farm homes, improvement in roads, and shortening of distances to market and railway towns.

Landscapes Take Time

Landscaping architecture which will require 25 years to complete is being undertaken at Western University, London, Ontario. It is a reminder that landscapes are not made in a week or a month, "although a few vandals with axes and saws can do much to destroy one in a single day."

Silk is considered unclean by the Mohammedans because it is the product of a worm.

Great Britain consumes one cup of coffee a week per capita.

Troubled With Her Children Having Summer Complaint

Mrs. L. E. Montgomery, Ave. K, South, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, writes: "I am the mother of two children and have a great deal of trouble with them having summer complaints. In fact, several times every summer they were subject to them."

"I have found Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry to be the most effective remedy and keep it always handy and give it immediately on the first sign of any worm complaint."

"Thanks to Dr. Fowler's I no longer dread the summer months."

A Lost Island

Scientists Searching For Tiny Dot Of Land In the Pacific

Sarah Ann, much to the consternation of the astronomical world, has disappeared and, it is feared, drowned. Just a pin-point freckle on the broad face of the Pacific, Sarah Ann was—and maybe is—the tiniest sort of an uninhabited island.

This Cinderella of the sea was last reported alive some 15 years ago. Then of no value to anyone and avoided by ship captains, she has become today a spot of great importance. If she can be located, many scientists want a date five years from now.

The reason for the sudden popularity arises from efforts to calculate the course of the 1937 eclipse.

It has been found that on June 28, 1937, the sun will be eclipsed totally by the moon for about seven minutes. In all the Pacific, Sarah Ann was the only reported spot of land suitable for observation in the 5,000-mile long, 120-mile wide band of totality.

Unless Sarah Ann can be found, it is possible a coral reef may be built up to island status for the seven minutes.

HER HAND FELT DEAD

Helpless With Rheumatism

In one aim she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. "But a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again. "I am well again," she writes. "The fact, I could not do my housework. I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands. I could not sleep at nights, and had to get up and have a walk every night. I took all kinds of medicines. I rubbed it and plastered it—but it was still there. I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I was well again. I have never slept so well at night since. Now I sleep all night—thank you for the blessings I have received in Kruschen. Thank you, Dr. Kruschen, for the help and relief."

Mr. Kruschen says: "The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the liver and kidneys to healthy regular action; assist them to get rid of the excess uric acid which is the cause of rheumatism. When taking Kruschen, the patient should be kept on a diet of fresh fruits and vegetables. When poisonous uric acid goes with its deposits of needle-pointed crystals—there's no doubt about those aches and pains going to!

A Retarding Influence

Rigid Economy When Not Necessary Does Much Harm

All over the province the high schools and collegiate institutes are trying to cut down expenses. In fact all over the province everybody is trying to cut down expenses, even those who have no reason at all for doing so. People who have their 1928 income are pinching like the rest. This reducing of expenses, this refraining from buying anything that can be done without retards the return of business activity. And yet a force like this operates inevitably and no argument can prevail against it.—Toronto Star.

Ready-Made Medicines—You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is invaluable. For sores, burns, scalds, it is a miracle. It is a salve for cuts, sores and the like. It needs no testimonial like the use, and it needs no guarantee to satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

No Change In Regulations

Law Governing Big Game Shooting in Saskatchewan the Same As Last Year

Regulations governing the shooting of big game in Saskatchewan remain the same this year as last year.

The season opens on November 15 and continues to December 14. Bag limit is one moose or one caribou and one deer, or two deer. With the exception of caribou, only males are to be shot.

Mother can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying a reliable remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Employer: "I'll give you a position as clerk to start with, and pay you what you are worth. Is that not satisfactory?"

Recent College Graduate: "Oh, certainly that—er—do you think you could afford it?"

Will Hurt U.S. Trade

Economic Conference Agreements Will Affect American Exports

Export of food products from the United States to the United Kingdom will probably be affected to the tune of $130,786,065 annually by the agreements reached at the Imperial Economic Conference between the United Kingdom and the Dominions, says the Journal of Commerce, New York.

Pointing out the effect of the agreements on United States products is problematical and probably impossible to forecast with any degree of certainty. The paper states a compilation of export values of the foodstuffs affected for the past five years led to the above valuation.

Steam Engine For Aeroplane

New Type Of Flying Machine To Be Tested

Harold C. Johnston, proprietor of an Akron, Ohio, welding shop, opened the doors of his small plant and disclosed a steam aeroplane engine which he turned up to 1,500 revolutions per minute.

Johnston a builder of his own aeroplane designs, said he had spent nine months in developing the engine after a plane accident more than a year ago had caused him to seek a way of eliminating the fire hazard in aviation.

Weighing only 168 pounds, exclusive of the propeller, the engine will develop 62 horse-power.

The engine is to be installed within a few weeks in a small plane and flown to the Pacific Coast.

One Little Incident

Easy To Understand Why Prince Of Wales Is Popular

An article in the Christian Science Monitor says the Prince of Wales has replaced one retiring Soily Island farmer with two unemployed Welsh miners and has sent an expert from his Duchy of Cornwall to teach them the intricacies of agriculture. Meanwhile, since they have been taken off the dole, he is paying them from his own pocket until their first crops are harvested. This one that continue to send our estimate of His Royal Highness still higher.

Hint For the Housewife

Easy Way To Liquify Jam That Has Hardened

If jam left from a previous season has become hard and sugary it need not be thrown away or reserved exclusively for cooking purposes. Fill a large earthenware bowl with cold water, and, after removing the jam pot, cover the pot in the cold water, placing the bowl in a fairly hot oven. After a time the jam will become liquid, and when it has cooled down it will be found that no hard lumps of sugar remain and the jam is delicious as ever.

Many children die from the assaults of worms and the first care of mothers should be to clean their infants free from these pests. A formula that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but will also help in giving the children a better appetite for food.

Miller's Worm Powders are a remedy for most of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebeling them and endangering their lives.

Cutting the Cost

Mrs. Sharpe: "The twins are going to cost us a lot of money to educate."

Mr. Sharpe: "Well, let's send one to school in the morning, and one in the afternoon and not pay for one."

Don't be without Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. Keep it always handy. Relieves toothache, neuralgia, sore throat, quinsy, and croup. Invaluable for burns, sores, Barber's Ith and ringworm.

TROOPS QUELL SECOND RIOT AT PORTSMOUTH

Kingston, Ont.—More than 200 condemned convicts, defiant in the face of machine guns and rifle fire, rioted in open mutiny in Portsmouth penitentiary.

Seven hundred mates howled their approval from the iron-barred cell block of Canada's largest penal institution.

One prisoner fell wounded before the fifth rifle fire of troops summoned for the second time in four days from Kingston barracks by disaffected prison officials. Prison authorities, who reported no further injuries, said the man was not seriously hurt.

The climax of three days of unrest since the initial outbreak came when 110 prisoners in an "overflow" dormitory overpowered their 40 guards and released another 110 convicts from cells of cells in the "big house."

Windham, Ont.—Collapse of a rumor that sentences of all inmates were to be reduced "one-third" was one of the chief causes of the riot at Portsmouth penitentiary, according to "Red," a former convict released last month.

The former convict also said there was little doubt "rotten food" and lack of cigarette papers also contributed to the recent outbreak.

Locomotive Blast

Boiler Explodes, Bringing Death To Engineer and Injuring Fireman

Dymond, Ont.—Michael Harris, engineer, is dead, and Tom O'Flaherty, fireman, and the brakeman, are injured as the result of a boiler explosion in the engine of a mixed stock and freight train a mile and a half east of here.

Meagre reports of the accident are reaching here over crippled communication channels. All wire communication between eastern and western Canada was cut off at the point of the explosion between Kenora and Fort Frances, Dr. Morrison, of Dryden, and Miss Watson, of the Red Cross hospital here, left hurriedly for the scene of the tragedy.

The train was eastbound on the Canadian Pacific Railway when the explosion occurred. Both Harris and O'Flaherty are residents of Kenora, Ontario.

Cost Of Canadian Navy

Sum Expended During Last Fiscal Year Was $3,043,509

Ottawa, Ont.—The total expenditure on the Royal Canadian Navy for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1932, amounted to $3,043,509. Of that sum the amount needed to cover construction costs of the two new warships, "Saguenay" and "Skeena," was $500,008. The navy is rapidly approaching the status of a Canadian-manned force. Of the eight commanders now serving in the R.C.N., seven are Canadians.

Up to the end of the fiscal year these ships ran up a bill of $92,551.68 for fuel oil, a minimum cost in view of the fact that the destroyers, "Saguenay" and "Skeena," were not commissioned until May and June of last year.

By-Election Is Closed

Liberal Candidate Noses Out By Majority Of One Vote

Summerside, P.E.I.—Given a majority of one vote in the by-election, Dr. J. F. MacNeill, Liberal, was declared elected to represent the fifth District of Prince Edward Island legislative assembly.

His total vote, officially announced by the returning officer, was 1,287. Mr. Downing, his Conservative opponent, received 1,386. It is understood that Mr. Downing will file application for a recount.

Labor Battalion Formed

B.C. Plans To Carry Out Road Work During Winter

Victoria, B.C.—British Columbia's first labor battalion sprang into being when provision for the segregation of young men in camps, members of non-permanent active militia, was made so that these men may be placed in a single camp in the university endowment lands area, Point Grey, Vancouver, under military discipline, with the object of carrying out road work in that area during winter months.

Alberta Asks Help From Ottawa For Stranded Men

Edmonton, Alberta—Efforts to move single unemployed men, residents of Vancouver and other British Columbia cities, who have been stranded in Edmonton and Calgary and other prairie points as a result of the ban on freight train riding, are now under way.

Premier J. E. Brownlie stated no intimation had been received as to what Ottawa was prepared to do.

It is understood R.C.M.P. officials have suggested each man be required to make an affidavit as to his proper place of residence and then the required number railway passengers cars, the colonist type, be requisitioned by the federal government to take the men to their homes. Under this plan each man would receive a pass to travel on these cars.

Vancouver, B.C.—Mayor L. D. Taylor has moved swiftly in an effort to block Edmonton's agitation at Ottawa for the removal of the "rod-ban" bearing. A flood of unemployed from the prairies on Vancouver and other coast cities, his worship wired Prime Minister Bennett, urging the ban remain.

For Disarmament

Memorial To Premier Macdonald Urging Acceptance Of U.S. Proposals

London, England.—Three hundred well-known Britons signed a national memorial to Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald, urging acceptance of the principle of the United States proposal to cut armaments by nearly one-third.

The memorial said the government should "as a practical step towards establishment of a status of equality in armaments declare forthwith acceptance of the principle of the proposal of President Herbert Hoover."

Among the signers were Lord Cecil, the Archbishop of York, Dean Inge, Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir Norman Angell, Maud Rayden, John Drinkwater, John Galsworthy, and H. G. Wells.

Voyage Was Uneventful

Miss Cora Hind Arrives In England From Churchill

Ashmouth, England.—Miss Cora Hind, Winnipeg newspaperwoman, arrived at this Gloucestershire port aboard the Italian motorship "Juventus," 13 days and 21 hours after leaving Churchill, Man. She was the first woman to sail from Canada's northwestern seaport.

What impressed her most was the fact the pilot was dropped only two miles out of Churchill after which the ship steamed steadily between nine and 10 knots, meeting fog only on one day.

During the entire 3,078 miles, she said, the ship had sighted only four icebergs, all early in the trip and at a considerable distance.

Japanese Bandits

May Release Captives

Have Come To Agreement About British Subjects Is Report

Shanghai, China.—Japanese intermediaries at Mukden were reported to have agreed to agree to effect the release of Mrs. Kenneth Pawley and Charles Corkran, British subjects, who were captured several weeks ago by bandits.

The agreement provides for payment of 130,000 yen (about $32,500), 250 pounds of opium and a supply of winter clothing for the bandits.

World Economic Conference

Date For Meeting In London To Be Decided Soon

Ottawa, Ont.—The date for the convening of the World Economic Conference in London, England, will be decided upon some time in November, it was stated on highest authority.

Fixing of the date, which may be in December or January, will be a matter of agreement between the government of the United Kingdom, which extended the invitations, and foreign and other powers who will be represented at the party.

Beef Exports From Alberta

Calgary, Alberta.—More than 100,000 pounds of beef was exported from Alberta in 1931, according to S. G. Carlyle, Alberta Livestock Commissioner. There were exported also 155,000 head of cattle, of which 8,000 went overseas. He stated 1931 would go down in history as having the lowest livestock price levels in 30 years.

The Thames Riot

Matter To Come Up For Debate In House Of Commons

London, England—Twelve hours after 10,000 jobless men and women had rioted across the Thames from Parliament Square, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald promised to permit debate soon in the House of Commons on unemployment.

A questioning member of parliament previously had brought up the riot as a subject of discussion, and Sir John Gilmour, the Home Secretary, reported the demonstration was organized by a Communist organization.

Fifty men and four women who were rounded up during the rioting and looting that followed, were taken into ancient Lambeth police court recently under heavy guard. Outside crowds of unemployed began to assemble but police lines held them in lower Kennington Lane.

The prisoners were sentenced to pay fines of 40 shillings each (about seven dollars) or serve jail terms of 14 days to one month.

After Long Sleep

Gri Said To Be Recovering From Sleeping Sickness Lasting Many Months

Chicago.—Like Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle, Miss Patricia McGuire, 27, who has been ill with sleeping sickness since last February 24, is going to have a lot of news to catch up when she awakens from her long slumber.

Physicians who have attended her in her suburban home in Oak Park say there are unmistakable signs that she is awakening and her friends are wondering what her reactions will be to the many things that have happened since she fell asleep.

MAY CONSIDER FIVE CENT BONUS FOR 1932 CROP

Ottawa, Ont.—The Federal Government is considering paying a bonus of five cents a bushel to western Canada's farmers of the 1932 wheat crop.

This was definitely stated in the House of Commons by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, when questions on the subject by John Vallance, Liberal (South Battleford), indicated no decision was given when a decision could be expected.

A bonus of five cents a bushel was paid to western wheat growers last year by the government, and was paid through the board of grain commissioners.

The question and answer between Prime Minister Bennett and Mr. Vallance were short.

Mr. Vallance said he had received three telegrams from points in the west, each urging him to press for the bonus of five cents a bushel on wheat. One telegram he said, stated if the bonus were not granted, "revolution was inevitable."

"The government has the matter under consideration," the Prime Minister replied.

SUCCEEDS CHARLESWORTH

Jobless Create Problem

Providing Government Officials With Plenty Of Worry

Calgary, Alberta—Single jobless in western Canada are in a quandary and providing government officials with a knotty problem.

Efforts to have the Dominion government provide them with transportation back to their homes brought statement from Mayor Louis D. Taylor, of Vancouver, that he feared they would all say Vancouver was their home and seek transportation for the coast city if such transportation were granted.

With 1,000 men in Edmonton without work and another 1,200 here, efforts were being made to find some means of aiding them during the winter month or, paving the way for their return to their homes, checked when the ban on rod-riding went into effect at the end of September.

Civic officials here said no relief was being granted able-bodied single men. Whether any would be granted later was not ventured, pending announcement of federal relief plans for the coming winter.

No Comment From Soviets

Press Silent So Far On Annulment Of Trade Agreement

Moscow, Russia—A despatch from London, England, reporting the annulment of the British trade agreement with Russia was published in Moscow newspaper without comment, apparently having been received too late for editorial expression.

During the Ottawa conference Soviet newspapers threatened reprisals if Great Britain sought to place restrictions on its purchases from Russia in accord with reported Canadian demands.

London, England—There was a general recognition in the London press that the denunciation of the Anglo-Russian trade treaty was the logical sequence of the Imperial Conference at Ottawa.

Kingston Prison Riot

Claimed Convict Helped To Quell Disturbance

Ottawa, Ont.—The Ottawa Citizen carried the following despatch from London following the penitentiary riot:

It is stated a threat was made to set a fire before "Red" Ryan, at one time a dangerous bandit, took action, and then he addressed an angry mob of convicts and appealed to them not to start the blaze or do any damage. "For God's sake, men, do not do this—it will not get you anywhere. I tried it one time and it didn't get me any place," he is reported as saying.

It is stated that "Red" Ryan's appeal helped to quiet down the convicts.

1,200 Men Given Work

Detroit—David Widman, secretary and treasurer of the Murray Corporation of America, manufacturers of automobile bodies, announced that the company this week is relishing 1,200 employees, mostly tool makers, and increasing its payroll about $50,000 a week in preparation for the production of 1933 models by automobile factories.

EVIDENCE IS SUBMITTED IN BRIGHT FAN CASE

Ottawa, Ont.—Conflicting evidence was adduced at the "Bright Fan" inquiry before Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. Captain R. E. Oliver, master of the British freighter which struck an iceberg and sank October 1 last, with 253,000 bushels of western grain loaded at Churchill, was the chief witness. Evidence was conflicting in regard to drinking among the officers and crew.

Captain Oliver, who was decorated for his war service in the patrol and transport services, passed through a long ordeal on the stand, weakening only when he begged to be excused from describing his war experiences.

Several witnesses said there was no liquor on the ship and none in evidence at Churchill. Captain Oliver said he had done no drinking since leaving England.

Steward Ged said he had two cases of whiskey when he left England, also considerable port and brandy. When he left Churchill there was two bottles of brandy and two of port. When the ship went down there was one bottle of brandy and two of port.

Discontinue Dumping Duty On Gasoline

Claim Duty Has Been Holding Up Price In Various Parts Of Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—An important step was taken by the government in ordering discontinuance of the dumping duty against gasoline imported from the United States. For some time complaints have been made that these dumping duties were holding up the price of gasoline in many parts of Canada. The regular duty of two and a half cents a gallon remains.

The dumping duty varied as the competitive prices of gasoline in the wholesale centres of the United States, but one estimate here was that it averaged about two cents a gallon.

Officials have declined to venture any forecast as to whether it would bring down the price of gasoline.

Attacks Trade Treaty

W. H. Moore Says Canada Is Forging Its Own Shackles

Victoria, B.C.—Abrogation of the Anglo-Soviet commercial treaty announced in London, England, is good news to the British Columbia lumber industry, which has been forced to compete with Russian dumped lumber in Great Britain.

"This is the most encouraging news that has been received for some time," said Hon. N. S. Loughlin, Minister of Lands, in commenting on the statement of R. H. J. H. Thomas that the Soviet trade agreement with Great Britain would be terminated.

London, England—A majority of 222 was secured by the government in the House of Commons on the first vote relative to the Ottawa agreements. The vote was not on the agreements themselves but on a resolution of procedure in connection with legislation implementing the agreements.

It was taken, nevertheless, as a good indication of how the House is divided on the trade agreement and the tariffs necessary to carry them out.

It implements the agreements it will be necessary to impose 22 new United Kingdom duties on foreign goods. The normal procedure would be to pass a separate resolution for each duty. The government motion before the House was to authorize the incorporation of the whole 22 duties into one resolution.

The government motion was carried 291 to 69, and the House resumed general debate on the main resolution.

Major C. R. Atlee, former Labor Minister, announced the Labor party did not intend to be bound by the Ottawa agreement. He added that he understood his party's views were shared by Sir Herbert Samuel, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader of the Canadian House of Commons, and H. Scullin, leader of the opposition in the Australian government.

Winnipeg, Man.—A far too tolerant attitude is being taken toward crime, and the present situation does not regard wrong-doing as a thing to be ashamed of, as did their fathers. Magistrate D. Graham remarked in police court here, when he reluctantly allowed three young men the freedom on suspended sentences of two years each.

"WHY WE SHOULD BUY
ALBERTA-MADE GOODS

The following essay, written by Boynton Chreston, won the $5 prize donated by the Calgary Board of Trade, at the Arrowwood-District school fair:

This is a subject upon which probably more people are debating than any other. Some claim that, had we invested more in Alberta industries, the present financial depression would not be felt in such degree as it is now; others declare that we should cut down on our tariff and import more of our goods.

Be that as it may, I will endeavor to prove to you, that, were we to buy more home-manufactured goods, a great number of our citizens would be in a better financial condition.

For instance, take the case of the Southern Alberta sugar farmer. A number of erstwhile grain growers, on the construction of a sugar factory at Raymond, gave up their wheat raising activities and entered the sugar beet industry. In 1930 this factory paid out to Alberta farmers for beets $825,000, to Alberta labor $185,000, to Alberta mines $45,000, to Alberta quarries $15,000, to Alberta railroads $300,000, to Alberta factories (boxes, oils, etc.) $85,000, making a total expenditure to Alberta industries of $1,455,000.

Thus at the head of the concern found that because citizens and factories were buying less of their sugar than ever, they must cut their production expenditure to $1,255,000. Merely because they were buying British Columbia instead of Raymond sugar, the inhabitants of Alberta had robed the Province of nearly a quarter of a million dollars; and, furthermore, if this factory is forced to close, all these farmers that are at present raising beets will necessarily resume grain raising and our markets will be gutted with a further decline. The sugar problem is only one of many in which Alberta factories and industries are finding it a hard struggle to keep going, simply because the citizens would rather import their goods than make their own.

As another example, consider the cement works at Exshaw. This factory, recently started, hires large numbers of men to labor in their quarries and workshops. They also pay large sums to railroads and other concerns for haulage, sacks and so on, for them. Thus you see that it is to our advantage to keep these works in action. By increased use of Exshaw cement along with different products from the same place, we can keep it in operation; whereas if we buy even lesser amounts of their commodities, the threatened shut down will come. This closure will leave scores upon scores more to fill our unemployment ranks, and it is again a case of helping our rising industries to help ourselves.

Another case is the tar sands to the north of our province. In developing these beds of tar sands we find a product at home that may be used to surface our roads instead of finding it necessary to import material. We may use again that statement that the development of all industries, such as tar sands, will give jobs to many of our unemployed.

To further exemplify the fact that we should buy province-made products, we will consider the natural oil fields at Turner Valley and Black Diamond. If, instead of importing our gas, we put these fields in competent hands, so there would be none of the wastage which caused the recent shut down, we would be using a house product and would be assisting the oil companies to keep solvent. And to keep themselves in action, not only would these companies find it necessary to hire more men, but they would be paying out money to our pipe manufacturers, our trucking and carting concerns, our lumber companies and others. Furthermore, if we put up a tariff wall to keep out foreign gas and oil, and insisted on buying Turner Valley and Black Diamond products, there would be an increased consumption, with practically no competition from outside our provinces, and the price of gas would very likely drop.

In the factory of the Great West Garment Co. at Edmonton, Alberta, nearly 600 men and women are employed in the making of wearing apparel. In the past year these workers have been unable to work half time owing to the importation of outside goods. Were we to stop this influx of foreign clothing, this factory would be able to work full time for 12 months of the year, as well as to double their output.

Now are the aforementioned all industries thus affected; the Broder Canning Company at Edmonton, Bedford's Azaries at Taber, the Riverdale Iron Works at Calgary, the Tuxedo Coffee and Spice Mills, Calgary, Royal Crown Soap Company at Calgary, and scores of other manufacturers, owing to importations of goods in their various lines, find it impossible to run their factories more than half time.

As I have shown, then, by these different examples, it is entirely to the advantage of the merchant, farmer, townsmen—in fact everybody, to buy Alberta Made Products.

THE KINGSTON RIOTS

Riots in Kingston penitentiary. The cause: tobacco rations. Inferences: that the imprisonment of five Communists in the institution has created a revolutionary situation. We have got to search deeper for the primary causes of penitentiary riots. We must either accept the mediæval attitude toward crime and punishment—that is, the rack; solitary confinement; bread and water, lashing and the whole horror of the dungeon, or search for a more enlightened method. If we accept mediævalism we must admit that society sees revenge on those who become enemies of society. If we wish to go forward, we must turn over our courts to the psychologists and our prisons to the pathologists. We go only half way, however. Society indulges in sentimentalism—after the prisoner is safely behind the bars. It demands prison reform, without attempting to learn why prison reform is needed.

In this case, blame the Communists if you wish. Society, as represented by Ontario's attorney-general, is afraid of the Communists. Society must be protected, consequently Communists are thrown into jail. But jail is the very worst place to send these men. If they are idealists, their ideals go with them; if they are natural born rebels, penitentiary restraint makes them more rebellious. If they are merely agitators, what better place to agitate than among a disgruntled collection of social misfits?—Drumheller Mail.

A few days ago we heard a remarkable pianist, who had only one hand. And then George Sanger knocked it all hollow by remarking: That's nothing; I heard a singer today who has no voice."

A man and woman travelling under the name of J. W. and Mrs. King, were arrested at Nelson, charged with being in possession of revolvers and ammunition stolen from the U. S. army. They have been identified as Robert Cross and Mrs. E. Fish, of Spokane. Cross is now charged with the robbery of the Greenwood liquor store and thefts of a truck belonging to the B.C. Telephone Co. Cross was just recently released from the Oakalla penitentiary after serving a sentence for hi-jacking a government liquor truck. He is also wanted in Spokane for robbery with violence.

YOUNG MEN: ATTENTION!

Are you awake to the challenge of these days? These are days of far-reaching significance for the history, if man, at least within that part of the world, whose institutions, customs and social systems have been dominated and moulded by "Western Civilization." Days significant because this present period will stand out with other epochs such as the Renaissance, and the beginning of the Machine Age, as marking the inauguration of a new era in our history; far-reaching because these days will witness such changes as will eventually lead to the complete transformation of society, socially, economically, and we trust, morally and spiritually.

In this colossal task of reconstruction the leadership of the young men of 1932 will be required. A better world must emerge out of the present chaotic condition of things and the young men of today will be called to build upon the work begun by others. This service can only be rendered by men who in their youth are equipped with alert and enquiring minds, healthy bodies, and the will to translate high ideals into action.

This will mean discipline and self-control. It will mean that a young man will make use of every available facility to educate himself in the broadest possible sense of the word; it will mean that he will associate with those whose daily lives are characterized by healthy habits and temperance in all things; it will mean that he will have the courage to say "No" in the face of temptation to follow a course of action which he knows to be unworthy of the best; that he will endeavor at all times to sacrifice the lesser things that might attain the highest and best things. The cream always rises to the top and if a man makes the best possible use of the talents he possesses it must follow that he will play no insignificant part in the building of a New Order.

Where do you stand? Take the measure of your own moral stature.

Is the main current of your life in 1932 toward a machine of which you may be justly proud in 1932? The voice rests with you. The path to a higher destiny may be over the stumbling-stones of the Past or the Present, placed in your pathway by the failure of others to cleave to the best, but by making out of these stumbling-stones, you may attain to something noble and supremely worth while.

It has been gratifying to the writer to see so many young men attending the services of the church. Keep up the good work; you are travelling in the right direction. A Young People's Society has been organized in connection with the United church.

We were off to a good start on Monday evening last. The organization's continued success will depend upon your interest, loyalty and hard work.

OYSTER EGGS ARE SMALL

Oysters in the shell belie their looks.

The shell is inert and, at a casual glance, not very interesting looking, but as a matter of fact there are many interesting points in the oyster's life story.

For instance, one reason why oysters are valuable in the diet is because, in addition to containing vitamins, they are rich in iron in an assimilable form, and have copper, too, so that they are useful in preventing anemia.

That's on the dietary side, and it is a bit of information worth keeping in mind.

It's worth keeping in mind, too, that oysters of excellent quality are produced both in the British Columbia waters and on Canada's Atlantic coast.

But there are many interesting facts in the natural history side of the oyster's story.

For instance, in the course of investigations made in Prince Edward Island waters for the Dominion Department of Fisheries in the past two or three years it has been found that when the oysters are two years old about three out of four of them are males, but as they grow older the proportion of females increases until among old oysters, three-quarters or more may produce eggs. The eggs by the way, are only about 1/50th of an inch in diameter when they are spawned.

In a few hours after it is fertilized the egg develops into a small larva which swims about by using tiny vibratory hairs upon its surface. Before long a shell grows over the larva which can still swim slowly. After about three weeks, the free-swimming period is ended and the oyster, now about 1/50th of an inch long, is ready to "settle" or, in other words, to cement itself by the more curved half of its shell to some suitable surface, such as a rock or a shell or a piece of brush.

After that, the oyster can do no more moving. It cannot go about after the minute plants or animals upon which it fed when at the larval stage of life.

"For the rest of its life," to quote Dr. A. W. H. Needler, the biological board scientist, who has carried on the Prince Edward Island investigations arranged by the department, "it obtains its food from the water which is made to flow through its shell by minute hairs beating rhythmically. It has an elaborate mechanism by which the solid particles are taken from the water; some are selected and taken into the mouth, and the rest are rejected."

But the oysters do not feed all the year around, neither the young nor the mature. Canada's Atlantic coast oysters stop feeding when the temperature of the water is lower than about 41 degrees Fahrenheit.

As the water is usually colder than this from November to April, the oyster's growth is in the other six months of the year. They usually take from three to five growing seasons after their first winter to reach a marketable size, which is a size of three and a half inches for those of round shape and four inches in the case of the "long" fellows.

Now is it by chance that one oyster is of round shape and another is not. The shape of an oyster, as Dr. Needler explains, is influenced by the conditions under which it grows. "If growing on soft bottom where it sinks slowly; or if growing in a place where silt is settling, the oyster, being unable to move, must grow long to keep the lips of its shell above the mud. On soft bottom an oyster tends to be long and narrow and its shape is roundest on hard, clean bottom."

Under conditions which favor rapid growth, it appears that the oyster grows faster and has the edges of its shell less curved, the most cupped oysters being found where the growth is slow. Oysters of the most valuable shape—i.e., most nearly round, with strong, cupped shells and plenty of space filled with meat between the two shells—are produced where they grow singly on hard, clean bottoms, where the water is relatively cool and salty.

The oyster found on the Dominion's Atlantic coast is the species known scientifically as Ostrea virginica. In British Columbia there are three species—the native, and two varieties introduced originally by means of seed oysters, the Japanese, and the Eastern. All told, more than 24,200 barrels of these tasty shellfish were marketed from the Dominion's fisheries last year. New Brunswick produced some 13,400 barrels of the total, Prince Edward Island over 5,200 barrels, and Nova Scotia slightly more than 2,000 barrels.

Up to the present the annual Canadian production has not been equal to the demand, but with increasing attention to the possibilities offered by the oyster industry, and the employment in suitable areas of "oyster farming" methods, such as those now being put into effect in some areas in Prince Edward Island, the output may be expected to increase. In the meantime, those people who buy Canadian oysters get a delicious, healthful sea food.

COMMUNISM

The Financial Post, the leading paper of finance in Canada has for some time been editorially attacking certain colleges for the attitude of some of the professorate favorable to Russian Communism. Some religious publications have also been guilty of publishing articles smacking of communism. At last a subscriber of the "New Outlook," one of the religious papers of Canada, has become exasperated and has written a scathing letter to that paper complaining of great Russian-Capitalistic-Governmental attitude in that regard. Outlook comes back in rebuttal to the and export their manufactures to subscribe and defend itself on the prides below what the standard of ground that it has "never lauded Russia or glorified its institutions or its will permit, and by this means civil-spirit." Their statement is undoubtedly true, but they have over a recent period been guilty at least of showing what the ordinary reader would understand to be leavings toward the despotic pirating of the capital of individuals and industries in Russia by the gang who now have the Governmental reins in that great country.

Communism was given a trial in Bible times. Seven men filled with the Holy Ghost, presided over by Stephen the Martyr, were finally entrusted with the distribution of the community supplies. Even those saints failed to satisfy the population and Communism failed. Communism means "Community Interests." The educated, intelligent, thrifty and ambitious people of fine characteristics must live on the same lower material level as the ignorant, lazy and good-for-nothings.

In Russia the few in control have been the most outstanding agitators against capital and yet the government that they are carrying on is operating the greatest capitalistic enterprise on the face of the earth.

They have merged all the capital of Russia into one great government monopoly. The population must

Soap in Tubes Now Available For Visitors To Europe

W. L. Clark, in an article in the Border Cities Star, says if you have travelled on the European continent, you have probably been caught soapless in the hotels. As all Canadian and American hotels, and many of the English ones, have soap in the bathrooms as a matter of course it comes as a surprise to you to must supply your own soap in the continental hotels.

Often we have wondered why some did not do something about this lack of soap. The proprietress of an English beauty parlor has also thought about it but she is practical. She has invented a concentrated soap that is sold in tubes like shaving cream and toothpaste. Now the continental traveller can buy a couple of tubes of soap before leaving the British Isles and so guard against the parsimony of the hotels.

We hope the woman who thought of the new idea cleans up a neat profit. We'll be a customer if we ever have the good fortune to go to Europe again.

Bread Provides Energy

It Is Cheapest and Best Food
Material Available

Bread is man's best food. Bread supplies the most important need of the body—energy.

Good bread is 100 per cent digestible.

More calories can be obtained in the form of bread than in the form of any other ready-to-serve food.

The diet of the people of the United States is only thirty per cent, bread, that of England fifty per cent, while France leads with a diet of which sixty per cent is bread.

Bread supplies one-third more energy at one-sixth the cost of meat.

Bread is the most economical of all foods.

Bread will not only supply energy but also material for growth and repair.

It is generally agreed that bread is the most palatable of all foods, because it is the only food that one can eat at every meal, day in and day out, year after year, without tiring. One reason is that a variety of about 50 different kinds of bread now being baked permits wide variation of the menu. The use of different kinds of bread from day to day is recommended by dietitians to please the appetite and to make the meals more interesting.

Bread more nearly supplies all the nutritive needs of man than any other food. By good bread is meant the kind the best representatives of the baking industry are making.

Bread is the staff of life. It is by no means a source of all the necessary food constituents of a normal diet, but today the role of bread in nutrition is most important since it furnishes about 40 per cent of our total calories, most of our carbohydrate, much of our proteins and roughage, some mineral salts, fat and vitamins.

Bread, next to milk, is the most satisfactory single article of food that is available. It is the most satisfactory form in which cereals can be used, and wheat is the most common grain that is used for bread making.

Bread is essentially a carbohydrate food, although it furnishes a fair proportion of protein and minerals.

Wheat flour contains from 8 to 17 per cent protein and from 65 to 75 per cent carbohydrate. White bread contains about 35 per cent water, 53 per cent carbohydrate, 9 per cent protein, and one per cent fat. The contents of whole wheat bread and grain bread are very nearly the same, but the carbohydrates and protein of white bread are more digestible than the carbohydrates and protein of either whole wheat or grain bread.

Bread theoretically can be combined with all other foods and in practice usually is so combined. It is the cheapest and best food material available and usually is used to make other more expensive foods go further—Betty Barclay.

Fish Show In Britain

Prize Pets Travel To London In
Thermos Flasks

How can you tell if a fish is really well bred? It is nearly as important in a fish as in a dog that its tail is of the right length, and that it bears it properly. The owner is its scapegoat, and the fins and general appearance.

Such points were all carefully considered by the judges at a great fish show held recently by the British Aquarists Association. Nearly all of 300 enthusiastic fish owners brought their 2,000 pets to be entered.

Because the temperature of the water is the real essential to the well-being of the majority of the fish, they generally travel in thermos flasks, and many were brought over from Paris to London in such-containers.

Britain is growing aquarium-minded, and the society grows slowly and steadily. Small flat owners find that fish are by far the most suitable and satisfying pets for the constricted areas.

Tropical varieties are the most popular. Some, scarcely an inch in length, can live comfortably in a pint of water. They are not really delicate; provided that their water is properly warmed and aerated, they are quite happy. Some enthusiasts heat their aquaria with electric current, but the more usual method is oil heating. Their food consists of live worms and insects, failing which, dried food can be bought for them—Pearson's Weekly.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

BY MARGARET PEDLER

"The Splendid Poly," of "The Herald of Far End," Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

"Did she? I expect she told you merely what was the truth. I went to see Mr. Tormarin, and he had told me that she could stop our marriage with Tormarin—could interfere in some way to prevent it. That was why I went to France. . . . But when she told me his backguard scheme—how she had planned and plotted to conceal the fact that Tormarin's wife was alive—and why she had done it, I would have no hand in anything that followed. I'm no saint!—a brief, ironical smile flitted across his face—"but there are some methods at which even I draw the line."

"So—that was why you stayed away?"

"That was why. I wanted you, Jean!—God only knows how I wanted you!—but I couldn't—try to force your hand at such a time. I couldn't profit by a damnable scheme like that."

Jean's eye's grew soft as she realized that beneath all the impudent arrogance and dominant demands of the man's temperament; there yet lay something fine and clean and straight—difficult to get at, perhaps; but which could yet rise, in answer to a sense of honor and fairness with which she had not credited him, and take command of his whole nature.

"I'm glad—glad you didn't come, Geoffrey," she said gently. "Glad you—couldn't."

"I don't know that I'm glad about it," he returned with a grim candour. "I simply couldn't do it, and that's all there is to it. But I've come now, Jean. I've come because I want you to give me just the right to look after you. I'm not asking for anything. I only want to serve you—if you'll let me—just to be near you. If Tormarin were free, I would not have come to you again. I know I should have no chance. But he's not free. Does that give me a chance, Jean? If it doesn't, I'll take myself off—I'll never bother you again. I'll try Africa—big game shooting!—with a short laugh. "But if it does."

He paused and waited for her answer. The intensity of longing in his eyes?—was the sole indication of the emotion that stirred within him; an emotion held in check by a stern self-control that seemed to Jean to be part of this new, changed lover of hers. Surely, in the months which had passed since she had fled from him on Dartmoor, he had fought with his devil and cast them out!

She held out her hands to him.

"Geoffrey, I'm so sorry—but I'm afraid it doesn't. I wish—I wish I could give you any other answer. But, you see, it isn't marrying—it's love that matters. And all my love is gone."

He took her hands in his and held them gently with that strange, new restraint he seemed to have learned. "I see," he said slowly. Then for a moment his calm wavered. The underlying passion, so strongly held in leash, shook the even tones of his voice. "Tormarin is a lucky man—in spite of everything! I give my soul to have what he has—your love, Jean."

His big hands closed round her slight ones and he lifted them to his lips. Then, without another word, he went away, and Jean was left wondering sorrowfully why the love that she did not want was offered her in such full measure, hers to take at will, while the love for which she craved, the love which would have meant the glory and fulfilment of life itself, was denied her—shut away by all the laws of God and Man.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Reunion

Jean leaned idly against the ancient wall which bounded the stone-paved court at Blairstown and looked down towards the valley below.

Spring was in the air—late comes to this eastern corner of Europe—but, at last, even here the fragrance of fresh growing things was permeating the atmosphere, strips of vivid blue rent the grey skies, and splashes of golden sunshine lay dappled over the shining roofs of the village that nestles in the valley.

No responsive light had lit itself in Jean's wistful eyes. She was out of tune with the season. Spring and hope go hand in hand, the symbol of the other; and the promise of spring-time, the blossom of hope, was dead within her heart—withered almost before it had time to bud.

The months she had quitted England had suffice to blunt the keen edge of her pain, but always she was conscious of a dull, unending ache—a corroding sense of the uselessness and emptiness of life.

Yet she had learned to be thankful for even this much respite from the piercing agony of the first few weeks that she had spent at Blairstown. Whatever the coming years might bring her of relief from pain, or even of some modicum of joy, those weeks when she had suffered the torments of the damned would remain stamped, indelibly upon her memory.

During the last days at Charnwood she had been keyed up to a high pitch of endurance by the very magnitude of the retribution she had made. It seems as though, when the soul strains upwards to the accomplishment of some deed that is almost beyond the power of weak human nature to achieve, there is a cushion, for the time being, of merciful oblivion to the intensity of pain involved. A transport of spiritual fervour lifts the heart—beyond any ordinary recognition of the physical fire that burns and chars the flesh, and some such ecstasy of sacrifice had supported Jean through the act of abnegation by which she had surrendered her love, and with it her life's happiness, at the foot of the stern altar of Duty.

Afterwards had followed the preparations and bustle of departure, the necessary arrangements to be made, and telegraphed to Blairstown, and finally the long journey across Europe and the hundred and one small details that required settlement before she and Claire were fully installed at Blairstown and the wheels of the household machinery running smoothly.

But when all this was accomplished, when the need to arrange and plan and make decisions had gone by and her mind was free to concern itself again with her own affairs, then Jean realized the full price of her renunciation.

And she paid it. In days that were an endless procession of anguished hours; in sleepless nights that were a mental and physical torment of unbearable longing such as she had never dreamed of; in tears and in dumb, helpless silence, she paid it. And at last, out of those racked and tortured weeks she emerged into a numb, listless capacity to plot up once more the torn and mutilated threads of life.

Looking backward, she marvelled at the wonderful patience with which Claire had borne with her, at the selfless way in which she had devoted all her energies to ministering to one who was suffering from heartbreak—then most wearying of all complaints to the sufferer's friends because so difficult of comprehension by those not similarly afflicted.

Nick's "pale gold narcissus!" To Jean, who had clung to him, helplessly by her tranquil, steadfast, unswerving faith and loving-kindness, it seemed as though the staunch and sturdy oak were a more appropriate metaphor in which to express the soul of Claire.

She heard her now, coming with light steps across the court. She rarely left Jean brooding long along these days, exercising all her tact and ingenuity to devise some means by which she might distract her thoughts when she could see they had slipped back into the past.

Jean turned to greet her with a faint smile.

"Well, my good angel? Come to rout me out? I suppose"—teasingly—"you want me to ride down to the village and bring back two lemons urgently demanded by the cook?"

Claire laughed a little. Many had been the transparent little devices she had employed to beguile Jean into the saddle, knowing well that once she was on the back of her favorite mare the errand which was the ostensible purpose of the occasion would but probably be entirely forgotten.

But Jean would return from a long ride over the beloved hills and valleys that had been familiar to her from childhood with a faint colour in her pale cheeks and with the shadow in her eyes a little lightened. There is no cure for sickness of the soul like the big, open spaces of the earth and God's clean winds and sunlight.

"No," said Claire, "it's not lemons this time."

"Then what is it?" demanded Jean. "You didn't come out here just to look at the view. There's an air of importance about you."

It was clear Claire wore a little drowsy aspect of excitement. The colour came and went swiftly in her cheeks, and her eyes had a bright, almost dazed look, while a small anxious frown kept appearing between her pretty brows. She regarded Jean uncertainly.

"Well—yes. It is something," she acknowledged. "I had a letter from Lady Anne this morning."
